

I'm human

I'm just a little kid and I can already sing this one song from memory...it's so beautiful! I remember singing it with my friends Maxx and Nikii at our school festival - it was truly amazing...and it wasn't because of my voice, but because the song is just that lovely. Bette Midler won a Golden Globe Award for her role in The Rose, where she sang the iconic song. Her version of "The Rose" reached number three on the US pop chart and sold over a million copies in its first year, earning it a Gold certification. Although it wasn't eligible for an Academy Award due to being not specifically written for the film, the Golden Globes recognized it as the Best Original Song. Some people say love is like a river that drowns the heart, or a razor that leaves you emotionally scarred. Others describe it as a never-ending hunger or need. But I believe love is more like a beautiful flower, and we are its only seed. It's those who fear breaking their hearts or waking up to new realities that often fail to dance with life. When the road has been too long and loneliness has taken over, people might think that love is reserved for the lucky ones. But remember that even in the harshest of winters, there lies a hidden seed that can bloom into something beautiful with the sun's warmth in the spring. Bette Midler recorded "The Rose" for her 1980 film about Janis Joplin's life. Despite initial disapproval from producers who thought it was too slow and not rock-and-roll enough, Paul Rothchild advocated for its inclusion. Bette lobbied for the song and ultimately secured its place in the movie. The track became a number one hit on the Adult Contemporary chart, with both Bette Midler winning a Grammy for Best Female Pop Vocal Performance and Amanda McBroom earning a Golden Globe for Best Original Song. "The Rose" was released as part of the soundtrack album, joining other timeless classics like "Over The Rainbow", "Blue Bayou", and ABBA's "I Have A Dream". A melody, a lullaby to soothe my soul To help me face whatever life throws at me If I can see the magic in a fairytale, I can hold on to hope even when things don't go as planned I'm convinced that there's goodness in every situation, no matter what I see I... When I was young, I had a childhood companion - a rag doll that held a special place in my heart Now, the way I feel about you is just like how I cherished that doll But now, my love has grown and deepened And it only gets stronger with each passing day And it keeps... You took your time to come back this time The world around me has been forever changed - has ...
